Mom & Dad

Losing you is our biggest heartbreak for this year. We were not prepared for it, and will never be. The thought of not seeing you, hearing you, and talking to you again is like a deep stab in our heart. We want you to be in peace, but it's hard not to think about you. No matter what we do, we can still hear your laugh in our heads. All of our shared memories just keep on flashing back, as if I click the replay button in my brain. If only I knew that you'd be gone, We should have hugged you for a long time when we last saw each other. It's very painful, not just for us, but also to the people that also loved and cherished you. I hope you'll find peace with Him. We will never ever forget about you.

We love you! Until we meet again, our Son.

To my dear brother

It breaks my heart to realize that you are no longer with us. The courage to keep us going is that we will see you on the other side one day. We must never question God, His Plans nor His Timing. I will always cherish memories we shared together. Even though you are not physically with us, I will always place you in my heart. Till we meet again bro, rest easy
